Rhadamanthys est un logiciel espion (infostealer), modulaire et fréquemment mis à jour, commercialisé sous forme de programme Malware-as-a-Service (MaaS). Il est apparu pour la première fois en août ou septembre 2022 et cible principalement les systèmes Windows. Rhadamanthys exfiltre des données sensibles telles que des identifiants et des portefeuilles de cryptomonnaies tout en utilisant des techniques d'évasion avancées. En plus des identifiants d'authentification, ce malware permet aussi d'exfiltrer l'historique du navigateur, des captures d'écran et d'autres informations générales sur le système de la machine victime, ces informations sont disponibles après achat sur le DarkWeb. Il a été déployé dans diverses campagnes de logiciels malveillants par des cybercriminels et des acteurs malveillants soutenus par des États.
